CLEVELAND MANAGER STANDS PAT IN ATTACK ON INVESTIGATORS

Cleveland, O., March 3.—William R. Hopkins, city manager of Cleveland, stood pat today in his attack launched against Senator Smith Brookhart, of Iowa, chairman of the committee named to investigate Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, the Democratic author of the probe although he refused to elaborate what he meant when he said in an address here before the Independent Anti-Society at Pythian Temple that "Senator Wheeler is a former subordinate of Daugherty."

"The speech speaks for itself," was his only comment, but it was understood from other sources that he resented the fact that Wheeler was district attorney of Montana under the administration of President Wilson.

"Neither of these men could if he wished, act impartially, Hopkins declared. "Neither would be allowed under similar circumstances to sit in a police court or a justice court on a case involving $50."

"Brookhart as a representative of the railway labor organizations, has fought tooth and nail with the attorney general."

"Wheeler has attacked the attorney general's character at every opportunity. "I have known Mr. Daugherty for 25 years and would be inclined to doubt if he was guilty of intentional wrong doing. The charges against him are vague and indefinite."

Who Ordered Marines to Teapot Dome.

Major-General John A. LeJeune, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Marine Corps, was summoned before the Senate investigating committee to tell who ordered him to send armed marines to drive workmen from Teapot Dome, the charge having been made that the order came from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt when his brother Archie was in the employ of Harry F. Sinclair, to whom the oil reserve was leased.

TRAIL LEADS TO DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE AGENTS

Government to Move To Recover Sections of Oil Lands

Washington, March 3.—The trial of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty before an admittedly hostile senate committee may prove the political sensation of a decade. The trial was ordered late Saturday.

It is entirely probable that more than one political skeleton will be forced to rattle its grizzly bones in the light by publicity before the investigation of Daugherty's conduct of the department of justice is completed.

Friends and foes of the attorney general are busily engaged in piling up evidence and planning moves.

While only Harry M. Daugherty himself is on trial on charges of malfeasance in office, and neglect of duty, actually, it was admitted today by political leaders of both sides, the trial of the attorney general is indirectly a trial of the Republican administration of which he has always been one of the outstanding figures and chief spokesmen.

Ramifications of the Daugherty investigation will spread into nearly every department and bureau of the government for no department of the government is so closely related with all the other departments as is the department of justice. And foes of the administration are planning to extend the present inquiry into many phases of government activity—the prohibition unit, the treasury department, the internal revenue bureau, the shipping board, the alien property bureau, with all of whose affairs of the department of justice has at one time or another been concerned in matters of judicial opinion, prosecution, etc.

Washington, March 3.—The senate's oil investigation entered another auspicious week today with strong indications that the tightening web of evidence would involve additional governmental officials in the great oil scandal.

While a formal meeting was not held, the public lands committee laid the groundwork for following up the trail, that leads straight to the department of justice as a result of the revelations in the now famous McLean telegrams.

Plans were made to hear this week the report of the expert accountants who have been examining the books of leading stockbrokers in Cleveland, New York and Washington. This report, according to members of the committee, will throw light on the stock dealing activities of federal officials.

Besides Senator Elkins, Republican of West Virginia, and Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, the books are expected to reveal other government officials as having dealt in oil stock, including Sinclair and a middle western independent company.

Coincident with these developments the special counsel to prosecute the government's oil suit—Robertson—announced today that court action would be started this week in the oil lease cases. First action will be filing of injunction suits in California and Wyoming to prevent further extraction of oil from the Elk Hills and Teapot Dome reserves. A move also will be made to annul the leases negotiated with E. L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair by ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall.

In another of his spasmodically issued statements, Doheny charged that the investigators are "concealing the truth" about the leases for the purpose of "political muskraking" in the approaching elections.

"The election in November—not the legality of the oil leases, nor the benefit they are to the government—is the sole factor now controlling the politicians who are conducting the so called oil investigations," Doheny said.

From the White House it was learned President Coolidge plans to appoint this week, special counsel to prosecute suits to recover sections sixteen and thirty-six owned by the Standard Oil Company of California in the Elk Hills reserve. This action was authorized in the Walsh resolution passed by congress.

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR WOMAN BURNED SERIOUSLY FRIDAY

The condition of Mrs. Jesse Kersey, 40 of Kennedy Street, who was severely burned when her clothing caught fire at her home, Friday evening was critical Monday morning, and little hope held for her recovery, according to attaches of the McClellan Hospital, where she was removed Saturday.

Mrs. Kersey was burned from her head to her knees, when her clothing caught fire from a paper torch she was holding to light a lamp at her home, Friday evening. The woman was employed at the Hooven and Allison twin mills, with her husband, and her clothing was soaked with oil and grease from the mill.

Her son and daughter, attempted to extinguish the flames by throwing water about her clothing, and her son, James Kersey, was severely burned about the hands, in fighting the fire. The woman's screams attracted neighbors who tore her clothing from her body, but after the flames had caused serious burns over her body.

The name of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, has been entered as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency in the Illinois primaries. Ex-U. S. Senator George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon, and Paul Howland, noted Washington attorney, have been retained to defend Attorney General H. M. Daugherty in the proposed impeachment proceedings. Federal Judge W. S. Kenyon, formerly U. S. Senator from Iowa, is mentioned as the next Attorney General, when Daugherty resigns. E. W. Smithers, chief telegrapher at the White House, also worked the private wire E. B. McLean had installed between Washington and Palm Beach. The Ministry of Premier Theunis, of Belgium, has been overthrown by the Chamber of Deputies, and has resigned.

ARREST OF VON KAHR DEMANDED AT HITLER TRIAL

Former Bavarian Dictator May Testify Wednesday.

Munich, Mar. 3.—Counsel for the defense in the famous Ludendorff-Hitler high treason trial today demanded the immediate arrest of Dr. Von Kahr, former Bavarian dictator; General Von Lossow, former commander of the Bavarian reichswehr and Herr Seisser, one of their associates in the events of last November.

Dr. Von Kahr, General Con Lossow and Herr Seisser had intimidated they would support the "beer cellar putsch," but withdrew causing its collapse within twelve hours after the "revolt" was launched.

Defense counsel contended that the fact that Von Kahr, Von Lossow and Seisser had conspired with the defendants made them equally guilty.

Replying to the demand of the defendant's counsel the public prosecutor said:

"This court does not need your advice as to necessary measures we should take."

Lieutenants Wagner and Pernert were given an opportunity today to make speeches of defense. If his health permits Von Kahr probably will testify Wednesday.

Eighteen girls were arrested in connection with the attack.

TIME INOPPORTUNE FOR DISARMAMENT MEET SAYS PREMIER

London, March 3.—The present moment is inopportune for any single nation to attempt to summon a disarmament conference. Premier Ramsay MacDonald told the house of commons this afternoon. Asked whether he intended to call an international disarmament conference, the premier replied:

"Broadly speaking, the league of nations already has discussed that situation. I do not think the present moment suitable for an independent step. We must await developments."

NEW WOULD REFER POSTAL INCREASES TO COMMISSION

Washington, March 3.—Proposed increases in salaries of postoffice workers and changes in conditions of employment involving increases in pay should be referred to a congressional commission, Postmaster General New said today in a letter to Representative W. W. Grist, chairman of the house committee on post office and post roads.

This commission, New said, would have time and opportunity to inquire fully into the merits of all the postal divisions, and will have before them the results of costs and be able to determine the relations between them and proper postage rates and fees for special services and revenues of the department in order that the merits may be properly considered and that suitable and desirable legislation growing out of the whole situation may be considered at one and the same time.

New pointed out that a readjustment of the service along the lines provided in the several bills now before congress would involve an annual increase in expenditures of $150,000 for the postal service. He made it plain, that, while he favored adequate and just salaries for government employees, the plans for increasing salaries should be worked out along scientific lines.

Manifestly New said, "any increase of any sum approaching that which is involved in the enactment of this legislation would render one of two things inevitable. One would be an increase of the rates of postage. The other would be to meet it as other expenses are met, by draft on the general treasury."

Can you imagine Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch college, giving a war dance?

Well he did that very thing at the "Bowery Ball" given by the students of Baker House at Kelly Hall, Saturday night. President Morgan attended the affair dressed as an Indian Chieftain, and gave an Indian war dance as a feature of the evening.

DAUGHERTY WAS ASKED TO RESIGN SAYS VANDERLIP

Coolidge Denies Banker's Charge About Alleged Request.

Washington, March 3.—Frank A. Vanderlip's assertion that President Coolidge had asked for the resignation of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty but had not received it, was characterized at the White House today as "too ridiculous to dignify by a denial."

President Coolidge has not asked for the attorney general's resignation, it was said and if he does ask it he will get it.

New York, March 3.—Confronted with the White House denial that President Coolidge has asked for resignation of Attorney General Daugherty and been met with refusal, Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier today reiterated his charge and said he "knew the exact date and circumstances under which the request occurred."

"I am prepared to prove my statement in the face of President Coolidge's denial," Vanderlip said, when he read a Washington dispatch containing the White House denial which characterized his charge as "too ridiculous to dignify by a denial."

"I not only know that President Coolidge requested Attorney General Daugherty to resign, but I know the exact date and circumstances under which the request occurred," Vanderlip declared.

"If I am called upon by the committee in Washington, I will go down and prove it to them," he added. "I will give out no details to anyone unless asked by the committee."

Politicians convicted in the public mind of debauching a public trust must be read out of the Republican party," Vanderlip declared.

PROBE STARTED TO FIX BLAME FOR TNT BLAST SATURDAY

Nixon, N. J., Mar. 3.—Efforts were being made today by Middlesex County authorities to fix the blame for the explosion which on Saturday destroyed the plant of the Nixon Nitration Company here and took the lives of at least eighteen persons and injured one hundred more.

Lewis and Stanhope Nixon, owners of the razed plant, and R. Norris Shreve, president of the Ammonite company, which owned the explosive material, were called into conference at the county prosecutor's office together with army officers from the adjoining arsenal at Raritan, and survivors of the blast.

In addition to the eighteen known dead, two others are missing and of the 15 seriously injured in various hospitals it is feared many will die. Opinions varied as to the cause of the explosion. Officials of the nitrate plant believed small quantities of TNT had been left in the ammonium nitrate when it was extracted from shells at the arsenal and sent to their plant, while Major A. S. Casad, in command at Raritan arsenal, was equally sure the explosion was caused by chemical conditions in connection with the making of fertilizer from the nitrate at the plant and not due to carelessness in loading TNT in the mixture at the arsenal.

FORMER PATROLMAN RE-APPOINTED TO POLICE VACANCY

Fred Jones, former member of the Xenia Police Department, was re-appointed patrolman on the department Saturday afternoon by City Manager S. O. Hale.

The new policeman will succeed James Sowards, who resigned Saturday after he was appointed superintendent of the Greene County Children's Home, but the appointment will not become effective until March 15.

Jones was a patrolman on the department nearly two years and established a good record as a policeman. He resigned to enter business, but has recently been employed at the John Barnett lumber yard, which has resigned to accept the city position.

During his term of service on the department he established a reputation as one of the most efficient patrolmen on the force, and was rated high in the esteem of Chief of Police M. E. Graham who recommended his re-appointment to the department.

Special Officer George Spencer will be employed on the department until the new policeman assumes his duties.

ANGLO-FRENCH ACCORD NEARER IT IS BELIEVED

London, Mar. 3.—Opinion was held in all circles today that an Anglo-French accord is nearer than it has been at any other time in more than a year as a result of the frank letters addressed by Premier Ramsay MacDonald to Premier Poincare, asking for closer and more amicable relations between the two powers.

The communications exchanged between the two premiers were given out for publication in Monday morning's newspapers.

Practically all London papers applauded MacDonald's firmness and frankness, especially his open declaration that the British people were suspicious of the mighty air fleet built up by the French.

Further letters will be exchanged, and it is said the premiers will meet for a personal conference after the committees of reparations experts have completed and submitted their reports.

Even the Daily Express, which has been skeptical of the labor premier's statesmanship, admitted that MacDonald has taken a firmer stand towards France than his two immediate predecessors—David Lloyd George and Stanley Baldwin. Signs of conciliation are seen in Poincare's replies.

Columbus, Mar. 3.—Slight increases for most farm products during February were noted in a report compiled by Statistician West of the state-federal crop reporting bureau made public today.

Live stock prices, however, were slightly lower than in January, West reported. The February corn price was 73 cents a bushel, wheat brought $1.06 and oats were up a cent a bushel. Hay prices were stationary. The lower live stock prices were evidenced in the report that hogs brought $6.78 a hundred pounds, which was $1 less than a year ago and 15 cents lower than in January.

THREE BELIEVED FATALLY BURNED IN OHIO VILLAGE

New Lexington, O., Mar. 3.—Nellie and Beulah Tracey, aged 3 and 5, respectively, are dead and their father, Roy Tracey, is expected to die at a Zanesville hospital as the result of burns they received today when their home at McCluney, O., five miles east of this place, burned.

The father poured gasoline, mistaken for coal oil on a fire to kindle it and the explosion followed.

His clothing on fire, Tracey ran to a creek and jumped in. He had managed to warn his wife, who fled with a nine months old baby, but the two little daughters were trapped in a bedroom and could not escape.

Tracey made frantic, but vain efforts to rescue the tots but the flames, swiftly consuming the four room frame cottage, prevented entrance to the dwelling.

LIBRARY IN URGENT NEED OF FUNDS

The Greene County Library will receive the proceeds from the Seumas MacManus entertainment which will be given at the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium at the new Central High School Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The library is in need of funds to replace the books used by the children in their school work, to replace the adult books that are worn out, and to secure new reference books and current fiction.

Adult tickets 50c and student tickets 20c. Any student selling two adult tickets will be given a ticket free.

Styles BY LENORE

You are planning your spring clothes just now. As the first selections are usually the basis for the spring and summer outfit, it is obvious that mistakes in judgment can be not only irritating but extremely expensive. It is well to remember then that:

The present Paris openings give high honors to black for the daytime costume, with scarlet touches to brighten it.

Unbelted and semi-belted sheathe dresses, and straight lines generally are the most favored. Circular effects also appear occasionally.

Lingerie details and large jabots trim some of the smartest dresses. Red is also featured for entire dresses at some of the openings; and finally—white is the color advanced for evening.

A timely frock is the distinctive, practical and copyable model illustrated in the cut. Black satin, of course. The interesting, length-giving "necklace scarf" and the bands which accentuate the slashed sides of the tunic, are composed of two stripes of black and red silk, covered with silver embroidery. This is a becoming model for a figure of average slenderness and medium height.

FORMER JAMESTOWN WOMAN IS DEAD

Funeral services for Mrs. Pennington will be held at the Friends Church, at Selma, Ohio, Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Mrs. William S. Turner, her daughter, and her sister Mrs. James A. Armstrong, who recently visited here, will accompany the remains.

OCTOGENARIAN WAS BROUGHT HERE IN PRAIRIE SCHOONER

David Beard, the oldest resident of the vicinity of Fairfield, reached his eighty-sixth birthday last week. He has been a resident of Fairfield only 16 years, but has lived in that vicinity practically all his life.

The Beard family moved to what was then a scattering of cottages, which since has grown into the village of Fairfield, eighty years ago. The covered wagon in which the family made its trip from Hagerstown, Md., was typical of the ones used by the pioneers who went west. Mr. Beard recollects vividly the hospitality extended by those settlers who greeted the Beard family as they moved into Fairfield.

"Those were good old days," said Mr. Beard. "Whiskey sold for twenty cents a gallon—and it was good whiskey, too."

Mr. Beard settled in the region known as "Big Woods" and lived there until 1907, when he moved to Fairfield.

SOLDIER'S BONUS BILL IS STARTED THROUGH CONGRESS

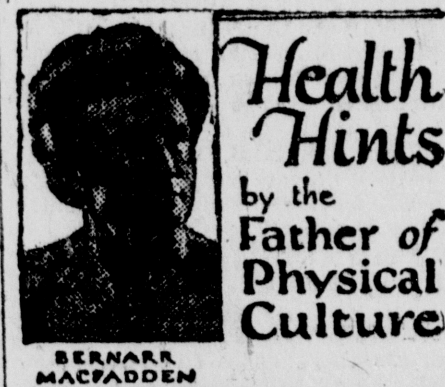

Washington, Mar. 3.—The soldiers bonus bill started through congress again today.

The house ways and means committee, which has considered the legislation so many times that the members know by heart the arguments for and against it, went through the motions of holding a hearing on the benefits and disadvantages of enacting an adjusted compensation bill.

It is a foregone conclusion that the bill, in the same form as it was voted in 1922, by President Harding, will be reported to the house by the end of the week, and the way cleared for its passage.

Officials of the American Legion, on the basis of their latest bonus poll in congress, claimed today that there were ample majorities in both houses to pass the bill over a presidential veto. President Coolidge's opposition to the bonus is well known, but it appears that congress is determined this time to write the legislation on the statute books.

The first witnesses before the ways and means committee today were members of the national legislative committee of the American Legion.

Health Hints
Father of
Physical Culture
BERNARR MACFADDEN

It would be no exaggeration to say that scores of people literally cough themselves into their graves. A cough is one of the first symptoms of a cold, and a cold neglected is one of the first symptoms that a coffin will soon be needed. Note that I say "a cold neglected," for neither a cough nor a cold will necessarily kill unless wrongly treated or allowed to develop into a more serious malady.

The mystery of a cold has been inquired into and debated for ages. The term "cold" is so used because we have always associated the ailment with cold weather and low degrees of temperature. As soon as we get away from this idea we will find the way to prevent and relieve colds.

Only a short time ago we read the warning sent out by a medical official of the government in regards to the expected epidemic of colds and influenza advising people to put on their heavier clothes than usual and to eat plenty of nourishing food. Then follows advice in regards to fresh air and ventilation and cleanliness, all of which latter is fine, but we object to the first two points of advice, unless qualified to some extent.

I can recall the many colds I experienced as a youngster on the farm, notwithstanding the woolen underwear, woolen socks, and general building-up paraphernalia which enveloped me, and the heavy farmer's diet I engorged. To this might be added the closed windows and efforts made to keep the house warm and free from drafts. Latest reports show that the farmer regardless of his opportunity for fresh air and exercise, is especially subject to respiratory disease, such as colds, bronchitis, and pneumonia. That heavy clothing and heavy diet are important factors I firmly believe.

Just now the theory of the bacterial origin of colds holds supremacy. Colds are considered contagious. In another decade this belief will have gone the way of many other ideas that doctors used to believe in. That there are plenty of bacteria in the discharges of the patient no one can deny, and a few of these may take up their habitat in the respiratory tract of some other poor unsuspecting individual who may subsequently develop a cold, but that these are the fundamental causes of colds has been disproved over and over again. If bacteria caused colds every person in a church with a half a dozen coughing members should come down in a few days with the same complaint.

Funds Urgently Needed For Relief of Germany's Suffering Children

THE burdens of the world weigh heavily upon the shoulders of this little German Miss, who is denied the good chocolate pudding given to her undernourished older sister. Born during the war and blockade years, the older girl did not get the articles of food which are essential to the growth of children, and an effort is being made now to nurse her and thousands like her back to health. Scarcity of the supplies, which are luxuries for adults, but absolute necessities for children, makes it necessary that they be given only the most needy. Funds being raised by the American Committee for Relief of German Children will be used for this purpose. The kettle in the picture is a part of a demolished army field kitchen.

DONAHEY WILL NOT CALL LEGISLATURE TO ASSIST SCHOOLS

Columbus, O., Mar. 3.—That he is not disposed to call the state legislature into special session was indicated again today by Governor Donahey, who was requested late Saturday by Attorney General Crabbe to recall the lawmakers to relieve financially stricken schools throughout the state.

The request was telegraphed by Crabbe from his home at London, went to New Philadelphia, Donahey's home, where Crabbe thought the governor was spending the week end. It has not reached the governor he said today. Until he gets it, he will not make a reply.

Governor Donahey stated he will make a detailed reply to the attorney general but indicated it will contain his customary reply to previous requests of the same sort that he is without authority to recall the legislature.

Attorney General Crabbe today declared the state constitution provides the governor may on any extraordinary occasion, convene the legislature, stating in his proclamation the purpose for which it is convened, and no other business may be transacted except that named in the proclamation of the governor.

SEED CORN TESTS MADE AT SCHOOL FIRST IN COUNTY

The first test of seed corn at the Xenia station, at the Central High School Building, was taken off by Fred R. Keeler, Smith-Hughes Agricultural teacher, and Ford S. Prince, County Farm Bureau Agent, last Friday, and upon examination it was found that the corn that had been selected from the field last fall, and dried properly, was in good condition, while that which was selected from the crib, was only about 60 per cent good, and in poor condition. The results of tests at the other three corn testing stations in Greene County have not been announced.

Summarized results of the various seed corn culling schools held in different parts of Fayette County show some startling conditions, according to W. W. Montgomery, county club agent. All corn so far examined in the county has showed a striking amount of molds in every form. Even solid and bright looking ears when examined closely show they are carrying some form of mold. Much of the corn shows immaturity.

This has been noticed by the farmers in the poor feeding quality of the corn this past season. In culling the immaturity shows up in ears which have kernels that are chalky in texture, dull in lustre and shrunken at the tip. Desirable kernels are horny in texture except slight cap of soft starch just under the dent, and have a bright oily lustre. Starchy kernels are more susceptible to disease and they contain a lower percentage of protein.

Corn in which the germ has been killed due to freezing shows a wide variation, both as to the way the corn has been handled and also somewhat as regard the northern and southern part of the county. This is due not to a difference in the temperature of cold weather this winter, but in respect to severely frost bitten corn last fall, which was much worse in the northern part of the county than in the southern.

Corn which got well dried out last fall, has stood the freezing remarkably well. Some crib corn has been found relatively free from dead germs due to freezing. However, some corn presumably stored away in a dry place and thought to be dry last fall, has been severely injured by the zero weather.

A bulletin on "Culling Seed Corn" is available to the public at the Farm Bureau office.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

MONEY COMPOUNDED AT 4%

ACCUMULATES FASTER THAN THE WORLD'S WEALTH

The wealth of the world over a long period of time does not mount up as fast as money compounded at a moderate rate of interest.

The average man thinks that his chances of accumulating any money are pretty slim. Yet, if one of our ancestors had invested a penny back in the days of Christ, at 4 per cent compounded semi-annually, would be worth many times the wealth of the whole world today.

From 1850 to 1912 the wealth of the United States increased at the rate of 5 per cent, and it is the richest nation in the world. Even this increase was due to a great extent to a mounting population since the per capita wealth only increased at the rate of 3 per cent.

Apparently then, the average man with his savings account does not need to be discouraged at his speed of accumulation after all, since he is keeping up with the richest nation, and in advance of the rest of the world.

BOY IS INJURED

In the advertising columns you can find the wares of every progressive merchant in town. You can read the offerings, compare the values, check up the statements with your previous shopping experience, and then make your selections. There's no wasted time, no needless footwork, no inconvenience.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE STATE OF THE UNION

The value to his country of Abraham Lincoln was that, fitted for his task he did the work at hand. That is what we Republicans Lincoln's followers, must do now. Fewer laws better enforced, less government better administered, more liberty better ordered—these are the needs of the time. The country is smothered by legislation. The boundaries of law have been broken over, and statutes have invaded the province of the pulpit and the school.

The church has abdicated to the state which can not possibly do the church's work—the Sermon on the Mount is higher than acts of Congress or legislatures.

The attempt to regiment the business activities of the people has resulted in multitudes of government bureaus, boards and commissions, hives of bureaucracy from which swarms of government agents fly over the land, disciplining industry and trade and eating up the substance of the people.

Expense of government has swollen to dropsical bulk, and administration of government has become so intricate and involved that nobody can comprehend its workings.

For instance when Lincoln became president there were, all told, fewer than one public official for every 800 adult citizens; today, according to the careful report of the National Industrial Conference Board, recently issued, there is one government employe for every 11 persons over 16 years of age.

The salaries alone, of these millions of public employes total $3,800,000,000 every year.

And what has come of it? The machinery of government has been so extended and overloaded that breakdown is imminent; and natural law of commerce are jammed into bureaucratic straight-jackets.

Men and women engaged in business the soul of which is uprightness, are goosestepped by government drill sergeants who themselves could not successfully direct any one of the myriad forms of productive industry that, taken together, have made America the economic wonder and envy of the world.

Those who do the day's work of the nation are so terrorized by tax-gatherers and other government spies and inspectors that American character is being transformed from that of upstanding fearless citizens of a republic into that of furtive and hypocritical subject of an autocracy.

That, in spite of repressive laws and oppressive execution of them, American business makes headway is due to the wealth of the land and the resourcefulness of the people.

The first step toward re-establishing affection for and obedience to legislation. If a unanimous act of Congress provided that thereafter the sun should rise in the west, it would still rise in the east. Some of the Ten Commandments can, should be and have been enacted into man-made laws but not others. For instance, no human legislation can force love of God or reverence of parents.

These illustrations show the limits of statutes and of government restrictions. Beyond these limits and above them is the province of the church. Congress or legislatures can not make us merciful or meek of heart; but the preacher can, if he does not turn over to the legislator his sacred task.

So the first thing for us to do is to re-establish our polarity, as Emerson puts it—that is, to get our proportions right again. We are now afflicted with intellectual and spiritual astigmatism. We need a first class moral and mental oculist.

To simplify government, to reduce public expenses, to make statutes intelligent and within the field of legislation—these are the basic problems we must solve. Others only less perplexing, confront us, such as transportation, taxation and immigration, for example.

If Congress were to work only on these three for a solid year to the exclusion of everything else and with the aid of the best informed and most thoughtful persons in the whole country, too much time and effort would not be given to these vital and pressing subjects.—By Albert J. Beveridge.

A SONG OF SONGS

Who can tell when a song will go "from the heart to the heart," as Beethoven said of one of his own compositions? In the year past a meaningless song about bananas swept the earth, and even in the bazaars of Smarkand or the forest of Burma the saxophones were moaning with it.

Henry James Williams, who wrote "Tipperary," has joined the silent company of those who wrote a deathless song and are more gratefully remembered than those who made a nation's laws. Like "Ben Hur" or "David Harum," his manuscript went begging a long time from door to door before it found a publisher. Suddenly it found the simultaneous tongues of myriads of soldiers heartened by its sentiments as they took the trail into the hell of battle. This song of home and the girl left behind touched chords of elemental appeal in soldiers who spoke many languages and yet could understand the universal message couched in its invigorating rhythm.

"Three with a new song's measure can trample an empire down," said the poet. "Tipperary" sent a singing army against a standing army and by the power of music made the singers invincible.

Who shall say what part George Cohan's "Over There" had in winning the war? Those who sang it together found it as potent a factor for morale as the discipline of barracks and the drill ground; no battle hymn of the republic could have done more to rouse and sustain a spirit of co-operative determination.

TO THE BABY
Little eyes that dance with glee,
Light the troubled way for me.
Little hands, so soft and white,
Make my heavy burdens light.
Little feet that patter near,
Carry oh, so much of cheer!
Little cheeks so soft to press,
Yet so plump with happiness.
Strange it seems, and yet so true,
I should care so much for you.
Why should I, so big and tall,

Give my heart to one so small?
Why should I sit all the while
Eager just to see you smile?
Why should all you do or say
Comfort me throughout the day?
How has all this come to be
That you mean so much to me?
Can you guess, or do you know,
Why it is I love you so?
It's because my heart is glad
I was picked to be your dad.

Today's Talks

CONCORD

"It takes two to speak truth—one to speak and another to hear," says Thoreau.

The two, somehow, seem to comprise understanding. Nature is all truth, for there is nothing in her vast embrace that does not bespeak harmony, love, beauty.

The ideal friendship and palship is that of two between whom there is a perfect balance between the faults of the one and the virtues of the other, so that the good in each contributes to make the other happier.

Peace and understanding—what a wonderful union.

Between real friends there is little need for extended conversation. Hours may pass with few words exchanged and yet each may depart enriched and strengthened.

The one who speaks and the one who drinks in and understands—that is communion like honey dropping from an overfilled comb.

No poet can adequately picture nor any artist paint the real essence of the beauty of a flower—or in fact of any of the wonderful manifestations of nature. But each can suggest and give the mind an appreciation that at once raises the attraction of all beauty nearer than ever to its true worth.

And then you who look, are able to drink in and be deeply refreshed. I could paraphrase Thoreau's great sentence thus: It takes two to understand beauty—one to see it and another to appreciate it.

When the bodily machine breaks in any of its parts, it is because some one part has fallen out of harmony. A clean mind and heart naturally suggest a clean body working in fine order. But when the thoughts become muddy and clouded with dust, the heart is hurt and the body is not slow to feel the effect.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO ENTERING AND ROBBING TWO HOMES

Following his arrest by Sheriff Morris Sharp Monday morning, Henry Harrison Duerison, 18, colored, confessed that he entered the homes of Carl Corry and Carl Spracklin, CHfton and Yellow Springs Pike Saturday afternoon, during the absence of the families stole two gold watches, a quantity of clothing and some food.

Most of the property was recovered by Sheriff Sharp and Deputy Sheriff George Spencer later when the youth led them to the places where they were concealed.

The gold watches one a man's and one a woman's were taken from the Corry home. The man's watch was found behind a "kick board" in a stall in the barn at the Duerison home about a mile from the scene of the two burglaries. The other watch, which had been dropped in a mortise around a door frame in the barn was recovered by the officers who cut a hole in the door frame about two feet below the point where it had been dropped.

Most of the clothing, which was principally women's apparel taken from both the Corry and Spracklin homes was found in a gunny sack cached in a corn shock in a field on a neighboring farm. Part of the food taken which consisted of three cans of sausage, two jars of jelly and some bread and cake was also found.

Duerison was suspected of the thefts because he has been in trouble in the neighborhood before, and he was taken into custody about 9 o'clock on the road not far from his home while on his way to work on a nearby farm. Questioned, he at first denied his guilt but finally broke down and confessed after his shoes had been fitted in tracks found at the homes of the burglaries. He then lead the officers to the places where he had concealed his booty.

The boy was locked up in the county jail. No charge had been placed against him Monday afternoon.

BY THE WAY-WHO IS SUSIE LEE ANYWAY?

New York, Mar. 3.—Testimony that "Susie Lee" the figure of mystery in the trial of Mrs. Eleanor Lee Harris, whose husband, Beverly D. Harris, former vice president of the National City bank, is seeking a marriage annulment—does actually exist, was given by Oscar Hysmith, recorder of Dover, Tenn., at today's session of the trial.

It is Harris' contention that his wife is "Susie Lee." Mrs. Harris denies this. She says "Susie" is her sister. Hysmith, questioned by Caruthers Ewing, Harris' attorney, testified he knew both Mrs. Harris and her sister, "Susie."

MISSIONARIES ARE RETIRED AFTER 50 YEARS OF SERVICE

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Drees, former Xenians, who are retiring from active service after thirty years of leadership in the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Buenos Aires and Argentina, were tendered a luncheon and reception in connection with the fourth day's program of the Methodist conference in Buenos Aires recently.

Ministers of the conference and their wives participated in the affair, the dignitaries including Bishop and Mrs. Oldham, the former delivering a brief tribute to the work of Dr. and Mrs. Drees. In retiring from the field in Argentina, Dr. Drees is closing his fiftieth year as a missionary of the church. During that time he has performed service in Mexico, where he began his work, in Spain, Porto Rico, Uruguay and Argentina.

A Buenos Aires paper says: "It is likely that no other missionary leader in South America is more widely known and more highly respected than is Dr. Drees. Mrs. Drees has faithfully served also, contributing much to the effectiveness of his work by the charm of her personality. As a token of the high regard in which Dr. and Mrs. Drees are held by the conference of which the Doctor has been a member for so many years, they were presented with a handsome wardrobe trunk and a fine traveling case. These presents have special value in the fact that Dr. and Mrs. Drees expect to leave in the near future for the United States. The presentation was made by the Rev. F. A. Barrota, who in an eloquent speech, told Dr. and Mrs. Drees that the simple gifts but poorly expressed the love and appreciation of the friends who gave them."

"Following the presentation of the gifts by the members and friends of the name of the many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Drees in the First Church, as well as in the social and business world of Buenos Aires, presented Dr. Drees with a cheque for fifteen hundred pesos. In presenting the cheque, Dr. Harper said that it was generally understood that money talked and that it was the wish of the givers of the money that each have fifteen hundred eloquent voices speaking of the love and high regard in which the numerous friends of Dr. and Mrs. Drees held them. Dr. and Mrs. Drees were deeply moved by the occasion and in a few well chosen words expressed their appreciation of the honor shown them."

SOUL WILL NOT BE SATISFIED THROUGH MONEY SAYS SPEAKER

A crowd that filled the Church of the Nazarene to the doors, attended the Sunday evening service of the Rev. Bona Fleming, evangelist. His theme was, "Why People Commit Suicide."

"In the year of 1922 seventy-six millionaires committed suicide. This proves that money will not satisfy the cravings of the soul. The soul will never be satisfied until it is converted to God. Last year 25,000 people committed suicide and 50,000 more tried to. A soul without God is headed for trouble. The Holy Spirit is God's traveling agent. The way a soul can reach God is to be drawn to Him by the Spirit. It is a dangerous thing to play fast and loose with the Spirit of God. Thirty-three people bowed at the mourners bench for salvation Saturday evening the Rev. Mr. Fleming preached on the "Signs of the Times." He said in part, "there is no doubt but what we are living in the last days and church members are lovers of pleasures more than God. People have a form of Godliness but deny the power of the Holy Ghost. When man shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, dispisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, highminded. This is what hinders the work of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of professed followers of Christ today."

Sunday morning the theme was, "Holiness." "Without holiness no man shall see the Lord. It is God's will that every christian be made holy in this life. God commands sinners to repent and calls christians unto holiness. The call comes from God and not the church or preacher. Sanctified christians will keep sweet under test. Sometimes it looks like it would rob heaven to sweeten up some people but the Grace of God is sufficient."

Officers of the Greene County Board of Education were moved last Thursday from the Dowling Building, on East Market Street, to the Prosecuting Attorney's office, on the second floor of the Court House.

EDUCATION BOARD OFFICES MOVED

The new rooms were recently redecorated and fitted up for the education board. The regular meeting of the county boards will be held there, next Friday afternoon, March 7, at 1 o'clock, it is announced by H. C. Aultman, county superintendent of schools.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Greene Countians Who Have Achieved Distinction

(Editor's Note—This is the eleventh of a series of articles concerning former Greene County citizens who have since attained nation-wide prominence in their chosen fields of endeavor. It is interesting to note that Greene County has furnished more than its share of people who have later attained renown.)

JOHN LITTLE

It is not the purpose of this series of sketches to hold up any person for comparison or to attempt to distinguish one greater than the rest, but it is only fair to say that many consider that John Little, prominently identified with affairs in the last half of the nineteenth century, was one of the most distinguished figures the county has ever produced.

Many and varied interests and prominence in all ventures, marks him for a place in this series of biographies. John Little was a native of Ross Township, born there April 25, 1837, and living on his father's farm until the age of 19, entering Antioch College in 1856 and graduating there in 1862.

Following his graduation, Mr. Little began reading law with Judge J. J. Winans of this city, and while still in that capacity was elected mayor of Xenia. He was admitted to the bar in 1865 and the following year was elected prosecuting attorney of Greene County, being re-elected in 1868. Before concluding his second term he announced his candidacy for the State Legislature, resigned his county position and was elected in the fifty-ninth session. He was re-elected and became a political power in the state.

Mr. Little was elected states attorney general in 1873 and was re-elected two years later. For seven years after that he devoted himself to the legal practice, having in 1872 assumed a partnership with the late Judge Charles Shearer which continued until the latter took his seat as circuit judge in 1887. In 1884, Mr. Little was nominated for Congress, elected the same year and served from March 4, 1885 to March 4, 1887. Returning from Congress, he resumed his law practice in Xenia but two years later was called upon to fill the position on the Venezuelan commission to which he was appointed in 1889 by President Harrison. He was chosen president of that board and wrote the preliminary opinion concerning the disputed boundary line.

After his retirement from that commission, other official positions came to him. Governor McKinley appointed him a member of the Ohio State Board of Arbitration, which he held until his death. He also served as a member of the Court House Commission which had charge of the erection of the present Court House. His death occurred October 18, 1900 before the Court House was finished.

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

He rose a little abruptly to his feet, ignoring her question. There were servants hovering in the background. "Will you walk with me in the gardens?" he begged. "Or may I take you upon the river?"

She rose to her feet. For a moment she seemed to hesitate. "The river, I think," she decided. "Will you wait for three minutes while I get a wrap. You will find some punts moored to the landingstage there in the stream. I like the very largest and most comfortable."

Francis strolled to the edge of the stream, and made his choice of punts. Soon a servant appeared with his arms full of cushions, and a moment or two later, Margaret herself, wrapped in an ermine cloak. She smiled a little deprecatingly as she picked her way across the lawn.

"Don't laugh at me for being such a chilly mortal, please," she enjoined. "And don't be afraid that I am going to propose a long expedition. I want to go to a little backwater in the next stream."

She settled herself in the stern and they glided down the narrow thoroughfare. The rose bushes from the garden almost lapped the water as they passed. Behind, the long low cottage, the deserted dinner table, the smooth lawn with its beds of scarlet geraniums and drooping lilac shrubs in the background, seemed like a scene from fairyland, to attain a perfection of detail unreal, almost theatrical.

"To the right when you reach the river, please," she directed. "You will find there is scarcely any current. We turn up the next stream."

There was something almost mysterious, a little impressive, about the broad expanse of river into which they presently turned. Opposite were woods and then a sloping lawn. From a house hidden in the distance they heard the sound of a woman singing. They even caught the murmurs of applause as she concluded. Then there was silence, only the soft gurgling of the water cloven by the punt pole. They glided past the front of the great unit house, past another strip of woodland, and then up a narrow stream.

"To the left here," she directed, "and then stop."

They bumped against the bank. The little backwater into which they had turned seemed to terminate in a bed of lilies whose faint fragrance almost enveloped them. The trees on either side made a little arch of darkness.

"Please ship your pole and listen," Margaret said dreamily. "Make yourself as comfortable as you can. There are plenty of cushions behind you. This is where I come for silence."

Francis obeyed her orders without remark. For a few moments, speech seemed impossible. The darkness was so intense that, although he was acutely conscious of her presence there, only a few feet away, nothing but the barest outline of her form was visible. The silence which she had brought him to seek was all around them. There was just the faintest splash of water from the spot where the stream and the river met, the distant barking of a dog, the occasional croaking of a frog from somewhere in the midst of the bed of lilies. Otherwise the silence and darkness were like a shroud.

Francis leaned forward in his place. His hands, which gripped the sides of the punt, were hot. The serenity of the night mocked him.

"So this is your paradise," he said, a little hoarsely.

She made no answer. Her silence seemed to him more thrilling than words. He leaned forward. His hands fell upon the soft fur which encompassed her. They rested there. Still she did not speak. He tightened his grasp, moved further forward, the passion surging through his veins, his breath almost falling him. He was so near now that he heard her breathing, saw her face, pale as ever. Her lips were a little parted, her eyes looked out, as it seemed to him, half in fear, half in hope. He bent lower still. She neither shrank away nor invited him.

"Dear!" he whispered.

Her arms stole from underneath the cloak, her fingers rested upon his shoulders. He scarcely knew whether it was a caress or whether she were holding him from her. In any case it was too late. With a little sob of passion his lips were pressed to hers. Even as she closed her eyes, the scent of the lilies seemed to intoxicate him,

The best is the most economical. JAP ROSE SOAP for shampooing is a striking example of this fact. Profuse, cleansing lather that rinses easily and leaves no sediment. Jap Rose makes the hair soft.—Adv. 108
